

Hellenic Air Force Academy, 08 July 2026

To Whom It May Concern,

The Hellenic Air Force Academy is pleased to announce its intention to organize the International Air Force Semester within the framework of the European Initiative for the Exchange of Military Young Officers.

The programme will take place from 28 September to 18 December 2026. All courses will be delivered at the Academy's facilities in a residential format. The main objective of the International Air Force Semester is to enhance the ability of future officers to adapt, cooperate, and operate effectively within the multicultural environment of the European Union.

The semester is designed for Pilot and Air Defence Controller cadets. It comprises ten (10) Common Modules, awarding a total of twenty-four (24) ECTS credits. Subject to seat availability, students from your institution may participate either in the full semester or in one or more individual Common Modules.

To that end, I would like to invite your esteemed institution to nominate participants for this unique and challenging educational experience. We are confident that their participation will strengthen international cooperation, foster intercultural understanding, and contribute to the development of the next generation of European Air Force officers.

We would be honored to welcome your cadets to the Hellenic Air Force Academy and look forward to your institution's participation.

Kind Regards,

Major General Ioannis Karamanis

Commander of the Hellenic Air Force Academy
