Date: 5 October 2026

Dear Commandant,

It is with great pleasure that the Norwegian Military Academy, as part of the Norwegian Defence University College (NDUC), invites your institution to participate in the international module OPS2205 – Complex International Operations, scheduled 4 January to 12 March 2027, with travel days 3 January and 12 March, at the Norwegian Military Academy, Linderud, Oslo, Norway.

This module carries 15 ECTS and aims to deepen understanding of complex military operations in modern conflict environments. Through lectures, case studies, war-gaming, and field exercise, participants explore joint, interagency, and multinational operations; integrating tactical, operational, and strategic levels; and engaging with critical thinking and leadership in ethically challenging settings.

The Academy will provide accommodation and meals throughout the module. Transportation will be arranged between Oslo International Airport (Gardermoen) and the Norwegian Military Academy for arrival and departure. A virtual information meeting will be held following the registration deadline to cover additional details.

In week 7 we invite staff from participating institutions to attend the International Week, during which they will observe and exchange perspectives on how the Norwegian Military Academy conducts education and training in complex operations. Invited staff will gain institutional insight, share best practices, and strengthen cooperation between our institutions.

We kindly ask that you nominate up to two cadets from your institution. To confirm your institution's participation, please complete and return the attached Application Form by 15 November 2026.

We look forward to welcoming your institution and enhancing mutual cooperation in officer education and complex operations training.

With highest regards,

Colonel Geir Pettersen
Commandant
Norwegian Military Academy
